Municipal Hospital

The urgent need for a hospital in this district has been once again brought before the municipalities, and the advisability of proceeding with the plan is now being seriously considered.

The hospital question was brought forward several times last year, but no definite decision was arrived at.

The following scheme appears to be the most popular one suggested last year, and we publish same in the hope that it will receive earliest consideration.

"That a frame building should be erected one story and a half high containing (a) on the ground floor, two private rooms and two wards - eight beds in all - and (b) on the first floor, rooms for the nurses and attendants. The said building to be erected in Oyen.

"That at least four municipalities share in the financing and maintaining of the hospital, each municipality to be represented on the board of directors.

"The municipalities of Acadia Valley, Bertawan, Cereal and Golden Center were suggested as the four, and if desired, Collingwood and others could take part.

"The board of directors, who would regulate all charges and expenses, to meet every three months.

"The building and equipping of the hospital to be done by contract work.

"The staff to consist of a nurse - housekeeper and a hired man, who would receive board and room.

"Estimated cost of building furnished $1800 to $2000.

"Salary list about $1000 per annum. All money to be handled by the board of directors.

Since January 1915 the following cases have needed hospital attention:

Municipality of Cereal	6
Golden Ctr	3
Bertawan	1
Collings	3
Cappon District	1

In year 1914 all municipalities were well represented with hospital cases, and a considerable number were furnished by out-lying districts, not in municipalities.

Up to the present time the district has been very fortunate in escaping contagious diseases, only occasional cases of typhoid and scarlet fever occurring.

These diseases which seem to follow the railroads may in future become more prevalent during their seasons. It is important that such cases should have prompt attention hospital treatment and strict isolation. The preservation of life by proper treatment is important; more so is the preservation of health by proper management of contagious diseases.

Anniversary Services

Anniversary services were held on Sunday, morning and evening, in the Methodist church. The financial statement was read and a special appeal made in behalf of the Church Building fund. The Oyen Quartette, whose services are always much appreciated, assisted at the evening service. Rev. Arthur Barner was the preacher at both services.

Don't Kiss Babies

For the first few months the baby should be little but sweet and cut. It should not be too clean, and tickled, nor should it be handled about, letting its feeding hours should be regular, and between times let it alone.

The persocation these little ones suffer at the hands of silly relatives and family friends is really pitiful. LEAVE THE BABY ALONE AND LET THEM CRY.

The death rate in the first three years of child life is greatest, and after that every added year increases its safety.

The most frequent cause of infant mortality is improper feeding, and inure little the stomach of the new born babe is a very delicate affair, but it is through the action of this small and delicate organ all growth comes, and the food which Nature has prepared for the babe's stomach is the mother's milk.

The wise mother will insist upon nursing her child not only for the child's sake but also for her own. The mother-fed child is the one that escapes a hundred dangers to which the bottle-fed babe is exposed; follow Nature and it is well for mother and for child. Nature loves her own, and it is when we stray from her that infant mortality begins.

The mother must be well fed if she would feed her child; make no mistake about this.

To-day we have so many food fads and eat so many things that have really no food value, that often the mother's milk is deficient in certain essential elements necessary for the child's growth.

Think of all the elements required, bone, muscle, energy, nerve (we can't live today without nerve), the heart, lungs, in fact all the thoracic viscera, all the abdominal viscera, the skin, the brain — all must be fed and kept growing; and the mother must through the food she takes provide for herself and her child.

It is not difficult to understand that a most generous diet is required to meet these demands. Every food stuff should be a part of the mother's daily ration from the time of conception until the child is weaned.

There is no better resting place for a child than in a roomy carriage on the veranda sheltered from the wind, or in the south room of the house, well ventilated, warm in the winter time.
